February Chapter Meeting: Tuesday, February 17
“Banking and Finance in a Bad Economy”

Guest Speaker: Richard Yuvienco, Vice President, Wells Fargo Business Banking Group

Are you surviving the winter financially? Do you know enough about business credit lines and loans? How do successful companies survive during tough economic times? To address the concerns of our members, the February meeting focuses on the critical issue of business finances. We will look at forecasting for our market and what small business owners can do to stay on top of this economy. We'll examine funding options and how lines of credit and loans can affect your personal credit, as well as how to avoid bankruptcy and get the most return on your dollar.

The guest speaker, Richard Yuvienco, has been active in the banking industry for more than 18 years. He has worked for both US Bank and Colorado Business Bank in the private banking departments. Throughout his career he has specialized in working with small businesses. Prior to moving to Portland in 2007 to become a vice president for Wells Fargo, Richard was active in civic causes in Denver with several mayoral appointments on City Boards and Commissions as well as community Boards for organizations including the Colorado Humane Society, Asian Chamber of Commerce, Denver Public Library and the Justice Center Review Board.
