Color Your World

"Color Forecasts, Trends and Theory"

Color is a powerful tool. It can transform a space and highlight architectural features. Color brings energy and tranquility to an environment. Join us for the March Chapter meeting and see how your knowledge of color can be a vital tool in communicating with your customers and understanding their needs. The Portland Chapter is invited to the YOLO colorhouse headquarters to share an evening with the company founders, Virginia Young and Janie Lowe, and learn about color and its ability to create warmth and harmony. They will also share their insight on forecasts and trends for today's residential and commercial color palettes.

Their passion for paint and compassion for the environment inspired Virginia Young and Janie Lowe to launch the YOLO colorhouse paint brand built on a natural color palette and environmentally responsible recipe. Both Janie and Virginia hold degrees in Fine Arts and Janie has taught color theory and design at Marylhurst University. Since 1996, the partners operated their own custom paint and plaster finishes company in Portland advising both homeowners and designers on color and texture. In 2005, they launched YOLO colorhouse with a premium, 0 VOC paint palette of 40 hues. Taking their cues from nature the seven color families are named Air, Grain, Leaf, Water, Stone, Clay and Petal.

Location: 1001 SE Water Ave. Eastbank Commerce Building
Come in through the front door off the parking lot and we will have directional signage. Park in the lot or on street.
